

Friday, November 23

9:00 a.m. – 3:30 p.m. WORKSHOP

Environmental Pasts - Environmental Futures: Perspectives on China

November 23

Venue: Yingjie Exchange Center, conference room No.3

9:00 a.m. – 3:30 p.m.

Chairs: Prof. Dr. Maohong BAO, Peking University and Prof. Dr. Christof MAUCH, LMU

9:00 – 9:15 a.m.

Welcome and Introduction

Chinese Environments in Global Perspective

Conserving Nature in China: A Western Idea?

Prof. Dr. Shen HOU, Renmin University

Global Environmental Visions: Perspectives on China's Relationship with the European Union

Prof. Dr. Sophia KALANTZAKOS, LMU

Good Food, Smart Food: An Ecological Revolution of Chinese Restaurants in California

Prof. Dr. Xiaohui LIU, Shanghai Normal University

Tea and Coffee Break

The global role of China in saving intact forest landscapes: A history of Mongolian oak, illegal logging, and the battle to protect habitat of the Siberian Tiger

Dr. Elena FEDITCHKINA TRACY, WWF Russia / RCC Fellow

Environmental governance and civic participation: changing narratives of China's green transition in German news media

Fengmin YAN, Free University of Berlin

The Development of Chinese Environmental History as a Response to International Scholarship

Prof. Dr. Fei SHENG, Sun Yat-Sen University

12:00 – 1:30 p.m.

Lunch Break - Zhongguanxinyuan

Regional Perspectives - Climate - Water - Energy

Residential Electricity Consumption and Time-Use Quantified Lifestyles in Urbanizing China

Pui Ting WONG, The Chinese University of Hongkong

The rise and fall of reeds on Shanghai Chongming Island – a micro-environmental history study of Chinese urban and rural development

Linjun XIE, University of Nottingham / RCC Doctoral Student

Hong Kong's nature: a moral history from a colonial project to contemporary environmental activism

Maxime DECAUDIN, University of Hongkong

Landscape and nature in Chinese tea culture

Volker HEUBEL, Tongji University

3:15 – 3:30 p.m.

Concluding Discussion