

Workshop

IS COMPLEXITY THE NEW FRAMEWORK FOR THE STUDY OF GLOBAL LIFE?

Rachel
Carson
Center

Date: 11-12 February 2011

Location: Rachel Carson Center for Environment and Society
Leopoldstr. 11 a
D-80802 Munich

Conveners: Emilian Kavalski and Gordon Winder

Program

Friday, 11 February 2011

13:00: Welcome and opening remarks

13:30-15:30 Panel A:

Erika Cudworth, University of East London
Presentation: Complexity, Ecologism, and Posthuman Politics

Christine Brachthäuser, University of Tübingen
Presentation: Explaining Global Governance: A Complexity Perspective

Tea/coffee break

15:45-17.45 Panel B:

Jonathon Louth, University of Chester
Presentation: Global Order: Resilience, Ramifications, and Unintended Consequences

Andreas Duit, Stockholm University
Presentation: Resilience Thinking: What Is It Good For?

Dinner

Saturday, 12 February 2011

9:30-12:00 Panel C:

Robert Geyer, Lancaster University
Presentation: Selling Complexity to Policy Actors: Doing More with Less in the Age of Austerity?

Klaus Mainzer, Technical University of Munich
Presentation: Self-Organization, Control, and Risks in Complex Dynamic Systems

Jürgen Scheffran, University of Hamburg
Presentation: Adaptive Complexity and Stability in Climate-Society Interactions

Lunch